

Make sure you would be ok with doing what you are doing online in real life

If you are doing this online

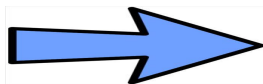

Sending a mean text.

It equals this in the real world

Yelling at someone and treating them disrespectfully to their face.

Taking your friends' phone, and without them knowing, pretending to be them- answering texts and posting on Instagram from their account.

Dressing up like your friend and trying to impersonate them at school with their teachers and friends.

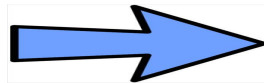

Downloading a song without paying for it.

Shoplifting a DVD at a store.

Cutting and pasting material from a website and putting it in a report without giving credit.

Copying your friend's essay word-for-word, turning it in and pretending you wrote it.

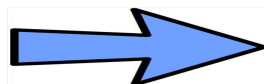

Texting mean messages over and over and making phone calls to bug or bully someone.

Stalking and harassing somebody by following them around all day and insulting them to their face.

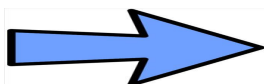

Posting a secret someone told you or a lie about them on social media.

Taking out a full page newspaper ad to print secrets or lies about someone.

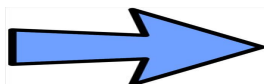

Giving away someone's private information on social media.

Standing on a corner with a bullhorn and announcing someone's name, phone number, or address.

Blocking somebody from social media sites you and friends are on.

Turning your back on someone and refusing to acknowledge or talk to them every time they walk up to you and your friends.

These actions are illegal and punishable by fines and jail time.
